Run: 2467

Date: 23 May 2019

Bunny: Miss Bollywood

Runsite: Old Happy Family Restaurant, Air Itam

There is always something about a Miss Bollywood run that is surprising and this was no exception. The hashers started to turn up around 5.30pm but because the run was fairly short no-one decided to go in early, which is a surprise in its-self!

Akz Hole and I arrived around about the same time and were surprised to find a whole group of people in 'uniform' with a banner saying "No more plastic and rubbish in the jungle". This group of people had been organised by Miss Bollywood whereby people pick up visible rubbish as they walk a trail, I believe it is called plogging. Plastic bags and rubber gloves were handed out even to some Hashers also.

The whole concept of cleaning up is well meaning but unfortunately there was no local resident participation nor education, so that those who threw it there in the first place did not learn not to do so and could be encouraged to throw more if other people come and clean it up. Nevertheless the group were enthusiastic and having fun as well as doing a good deed, so who am I to complain.

The run went up the hill and passed the Bat Temple and into the PBA area. The waterfall was lovely to see and with the recent rains was flowing nicely and this was the end of the walkers trail when they had to turn around and make their way back. The runners trail carried on along the cement track and went further up the hill to the top ridge heading into some bush before hitting the track back down the hill to come out by the side of the restaurant.

The usual FRBs were out in under the hour whilst the walkers tarried a bit by the waterfall and took pictures especially the 'Plogging' group. It was here that another surprise was to be had as a wizened bare chested old man gave Snatch & Grab and Beauty Queen a big hug which put a huge smile on his face.

Miss Bollywood had organised a 'sit-down' dinner at the restaurant (now under a new name and Management) which was well received and quickly devoured. The beers flowed and as the chatter grew louder we had the circle.

Circle

1. A photo call for the “ploggers’ was first on the agenda. They were a very enthusiastic and happy bunch.
2. The GM then put Snatch & Grab and Beauty Queen on the ice. The day before when setting the run the GM came across the same old man but she didn’t get a hug from him but today both BQ and S&G both got one. The GM wanted to know what they had that she didn’t?
3. A CFTF by the Bunny put all hashers on ice that didn’t take a plastic bag to pick up rubbish and thus join in her event. It was pointed out however that runners and walkers on the Hash come for the exercise and not for the picking up of someone else’s rubbish whilst on the run. However many participants of the hash have and do pick up rubbish and have done so for years. The GM herself was seriously ill a few years ago after doing such a thing.

4. A prize giving ceremony then took place as the first two with the heaviest bags of rubbish were awarded with sponsored gifts from their group.
5. Jackpot was next on ice. He brings everything to the hash but this week had forgotten a rubber band for his hair and had to borrow one from the GM.
6. Bunny on ice. Miss Bollywood was thanked for hosting the evening with good food and lively atmosphere.
